BLUESTONE BUILDINGS ALIVE

The offices, Visitor Centre, Resource Centre and Library of Melbourne's Living Museum of the West's are situated on the banks of the Maribyrnong River in Pipemakers Park, Maribyrnong, a Parks Victoria Park.

The site that today comprises Pipemakers Park is of very considerable significance in the industrial history of Australia, from its use as a large boiling-down works in Victoria's early pastoral days, to its association with the makers of Australia's first steam locomotive, its contribution to the world's export meat trade as Australia's leading meat cannery for a decade and as Australia's first frozen meat export works, and its role as the principal Australian factory of the Hume firm which pioneered, and exported, the invention of centrifugally-spun steel-reinforced concrete pipes.

Today the buildings in Pipemaker's Park include the restored historic Bluestone buildings, Humes Top Factory as well as the History of the Land Gardens.

These facilities are available to hire for community and private events, functions and exhibitions.

The History of the Land Gardens is used by staff to tell the story of Melbourne's west to
